Dear Sir,

I am in the habit of reading a number of the newspapers of the day, embracing the several political parties, which enables me to discover that the "American Citizen" is of a character ill designed to promote truth, or enlighten the mind.

As for the Pope, I am too old to be frightened by his shadow, and am quite sure his shadow or substance will do less harm to the liberties of my country than will a party, who seek to acquire political power by exciting religious bigotry in the minds of their duped followers. I think desire that you will discontinue sending The American Citizen to me, and I will request my son to call and pay you up to the 1st of September, if there is anything due you.

Respectfully,

E. Cornell
